World HEALTH day

School Jumba enthusiastically celebrated World Health Day on April 7th, 2025, with a wide array of engaging and informative activities aimed at promoting health awareness and encouraging healthy habits among students, teachers, and staff. The day was marked by vibrant participation and a palpable sense of enthusiasm for well-being.

Nature walk to study about diversity in plants

Practical studies in plants is not just about learning facts; it is about developing crucial skills, fostering a deeper understanding, and cultivating a lifelong appreciation for the living world around us.

Study about Roots

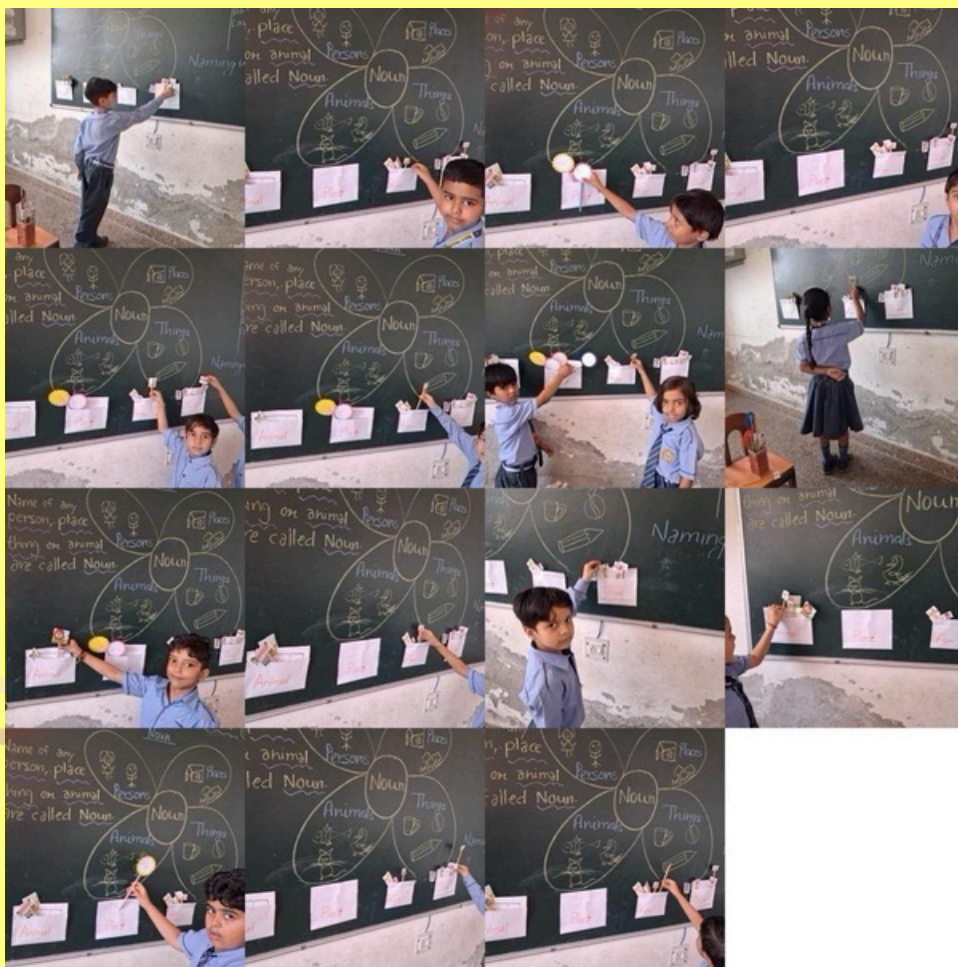

Studying roots is crucial because they are the foundation of a plant's survival, growth, and interaction with its environment. Understanding root structure, function, and adaptation is vital for agriculture, horticulture, ecology, and our overall understanding of the terrestrial biosphere.

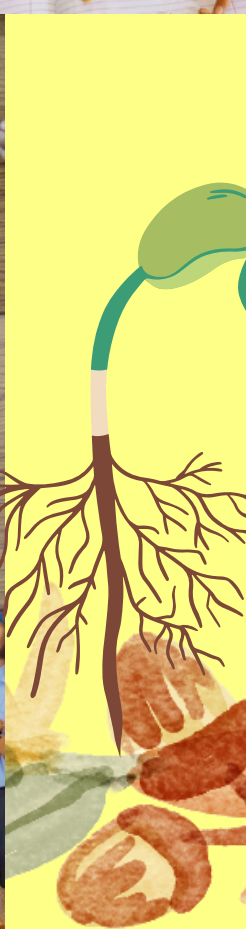

ACTIVITY OF NOUNS

Engaging kids with nouns through activities makes learning fun and memorable!

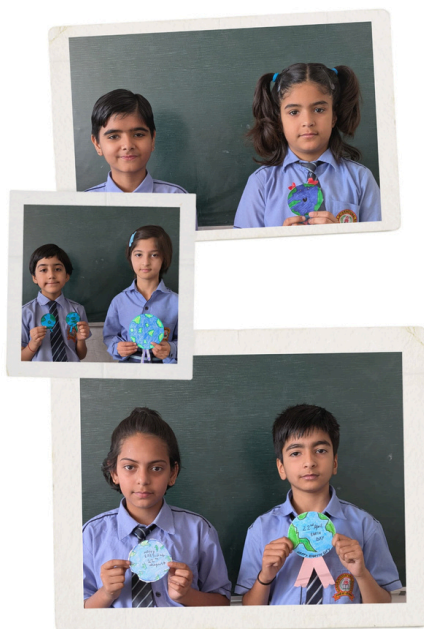

Study of Seeds

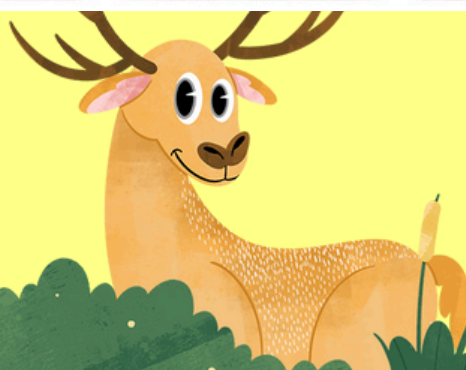

"Our school celebrated Global Earth Day with enthusiasm through various engaging activities such as slogan writing, badge making, eco-friendly band crafting, poster making, and more. These events aimed to raise awareness about environmental conservation and inspire students to take action for a greener planet."

World Book Day

"To celebrate World Book Day, our school organized a creative mask-making activity inspired by popular book characters. Students enthusiastically participated, showcasing their imagination and love for reading through their colorful and artistic masks."

"Our tiny tots celebrated Red Day with joy and excitement. Dressed in vibrant red outfits, the little ones participated in fun-filled activities like coloring, object identification, and art and craft, all centered around the color red. The event helped them recognize the color and its significance in a playful and engaging way."

Science Lab Visit

Students visited the Science Lab and engaged in exciting hands-on experiments. The activity sparked curiosity and made learning fun, helping them connect theory with real-life applications.

Tragedy in Pahalgam: A Moment of Reflection

On April 22, 2025, a tragic incident occurred in Baisaran Valley near Pahalgam, Jammu and Kashmir, where several innocent lives were lost in a violent attack. This unfortunate event, which targeted tourists enjoying the natural beauty of the region, has deeply saddened the entire nation. Among the victims were brave individuals, including a local resident who tried to protect others.

In the wake of this tragedy, communities across the country have come together to express solidarity, support the victims' families, and call for peace. Schools, citizens, and leaders have emphasized the importance of unity, tolerance, and standing together against violence.

As we reflect on this incident, let us teach and practice kindness, compassion, and understanding—values that build a safer and more inclusive world for everyone.

Let Us Stand United

As we conclude this edition of our school newsletter, let us remember the power of unity, empathy, and awareness. Whether it's celebrating the joy of books, embracing colors with our tiny tots, or standing in solidarity during difficult times, each moment reminds us of the strength we have when we come together.

Let's continue to learn, care, and grow—making our school and world a better place, one kind act at a time.
